MENELIK IS ON HIS DEATH BED.

King Descended From Solomon and Queen of Sheba.

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, Nov. 1.—King Menelik was stricken with apoplexy on Thursday night. His condition is considered serious.

King Menelik, the most famous fighting man and powerful of the world's primitive rulers, is king over a country in the northwest of Africa about half as large as the portion of the United States east of the Mississippi river.

His official title is His Imperial Majesty King Menelik II., K. C. M. G., Negus Negasti, Emperor of Ethiopia, King of Kings. His subjects call him the Negus of Janbor. He is the first King of the dynasty and has ruled since 1889. He claims to be a descendant of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

Menelik is famous for many things but the greatest of these is his fighting prowess and the power of his armies. He has secured marked respect from European nations because he has shown himself capable of defending Abyssinia to the fullest extent.

It is said that Menelik wrecked England's dream of "from Cape to Cairo" when his troops routed an Italian force of 25,000 men in May, 1896.

Menelik rules with a rod of iron, and punishes offenders with great severity. He is a giant in stature and is everywhere regarded as the greatest of the African rulers.

During March, 1904, "Joe," a baby lion, and "Bill," a raging hyena, arrived in Boston from King Menelik, consigned to President Roosevelt. During the few days that these strange animals were in Boston they attracted many visitors to the Lowther Castle, the ship that brought them from Africa.

EULOGIZED GENERAL HOWARD.

Rev. E. G. Guthrie Delivered Feeling Tribute to Dead Veteran.

Burlington, Nov. 1.—A feeling eulogy was paid General O. O. Howard at a memorial service held at the First Congregational church here yesterday, by Rev. E. G. Guthrie, the pastor. A large congregation was present. Rev. Guthrie last evening spoke on the "Mission of the Church" and the labor body of union printers attended.

TWELVE DEAD IN MINE

Explosion of Dynamite in Cambria Steel Mine

CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT

All the Men Were Buried and Badly Mutilated by the Explosion.
Only Two Escape Instant Death.

Johnstown, Nov. 1.—Twelve men were killed and two others probably fatally injured by an explosion of dynamite in Franklin No. 2 slope of the Cambria Steel company last night. Not a single member of the track-laying gang of 14 men in the slope will probably be able to tell the cause of the explosion, for the only survivors are at the point of death in the Cambria hospital. The mine officials are of the belief that a large quantity of dynamite used in the mine excavation exploded.

All the men were burned and mutilated so badly that their identification can be established only by recovery of the time checks and by a consultation of the payrolls of the company. The dead and injured are foreigners who had been employed during the day in laying a new track in the tenth parallel in the fourth right heading of the slope. They are known to have a large quantity of dynamite but the work of the day was such that it is not known what use they had for the explosive.

The impact of the explosion was heard outside the mine and a rescue party was speedily formed, but smoke poured from the mine in a dense volume and for a time it was impossible to enter the slope. The bodies of the miners were found close together. The men found alive were taken to the Cambria hospital in a dying condition.

TRIED TO CROSS TRACK AHEAD OF TRAIN

Automobile Was Hit and Two Men Were Killed and One Other Was Fatally Injured in New York.

New York, Nov. 1.—Dr. William G. Terwilliger, of Brooklyn and Robert Welch, a real estate operator, were killed and a young New York university lay student, Gilbert Rhoades, of Milton, N. Y., was seriously injured in a smash-up near Long Beach yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a train of the Long Island railroad. The automobile party was returning from a trip to Long Beach, where they had been looking over some real estate and according to witnesses, seemed to attempt to get across the track ahead of the train. The locomotive hit the automobile fairly, while it was in the middle of the track and shattered it.

The men in the auto were tossed into the air and all fell in the marshes many feet from the crossing. Terwilliger's body was picked up at least forty feet away from the crossing, while Welch's body fell fifty feet from the crossing and in another direction, and young Rhoades landed at nearly an equal distance in a third direction and some 100 feet or more from the spot where Terwilliger's body was found.

A physician summoned found that the skulls of both Terwilliger and Welch had been crushed and he said undoubtedly they had died instantly from the blow of the locomotive. Rhoades was unconscious when picked up. He was carried to a hospital in Long Island City while the bodies of Terwilliger and Welch were removed to an undertaking establishment.

FIVE LOSE THEIR LIVES.

Freight Engine Explodes at Yankee Dam, W. Va.

Elkins, W. Va., Nov. 1.—Meager details have been received at Elkins of the explosion of a freight engine on the coal and coke railroad at Yankee Dam, W. Va., about 45 miles from Elkins, Saturday afternoon, in which five of the crew lost their lives, the only one escaping being the flagman. The cause of the explosion is not known.

ENOUGH SWOLLEN HEADS; BRAIN FOOD NOT WANTED

Americans Also Nervy Enough Without Nerve Food, Says Government Chemist Winton.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Dr. A. L. Winton, chief inspector and chemist at the local government laboratory, surprised the Flour Men's club the other night by telling them it was well nigh impossible to practice deception under the regulations of the new pure food law. He gave the flour men this advice:

"Don't emphasize too freely that a product is a brain food; too many of us have swollen heads already."

"Don't insist on your products being nerve foods; most Americans have nerve enough."

"Don't insist too much that they enrich the blood; all cereals do this, and I hope, enrich the manufacturer."

"Don't advertise superior muscle properties; all breakfast cereals make muscle, and perhaps more than we need in these days of trolley cars and elevators."

"Don't, above all, compare your product with bread to the disparagement of the latter, because cereals may come and cereals may go, but bread goes down forever."

GOLD DUST is a powdered soap of magic power

Soap is often made from cheap refuse animal fats.

But don't worry.

GOLD DUST washing powder is a clean, wholesome vegetable oil soap, blended with carbonate of soda, and ground to a fine powder.

Not a trace of animal fat in it.

Our workmen at the factory never use gloves, but handle GOLD DUST, year after year, with bare hands, thus proving it harmless to skin or fabric.

Ask Your Neighbors

So many people scattered all over the American Continent have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines that there's scarcely a hamlet where some of these grateful people are not to be easily found—ever ready to say a good word for the medicines which cured them and which very likely may cure you, if similarly afflicted. Look them up. They are walking advertisements for Dr. Pierce's medicines—ever ready to pass the good news along that these medicines cure when many others fail. Little advertised NOW, because their record of 40 years of cures makes great displays of their merits unnecessary. The great American people, pretty generally know of their unequalled record.
